WHAT HE KNEW OF ROAD MAKING

Englishman Completely Astounded the Court When he Testified Yesterday.

SITUATION MOST DRAMATIC

Following Experts on the Stand the Farmer With College Degrees Opened Their Eyes.

Highly dramatic was an incident which occurred during the progress of the Elwell road fight at the court house yesterday afternoon and that it made a forcible impression was freely admitted even by those not in sympathy with the sentiment expressed. The interest in the road fight was intense. One farmer after another was examined before the joint sitting of the county commissioners of Rush and Fayette counties and closely questioned and cross examined by the prominent attorneys engaged in the case. Experts and surveyors were placed in the chair and never before was any question so thoroughly exhausted as the road building question was in this little court. A hundred or more farmers interested in the proceedings were quick to note any point gained by either side.

After the examination of witnesses began to grow tiresome, the name of Walter Wood was called out. The name not being a familiar one in this country, most of the spectators expected to see a farm hand trotted out, just to fill a gap in the proceedings. Down the aisle marched a fine looking, robust man of about forty-five years. His face was tanned from the heat of many suns and he looked more like the center rush of a college football team than a farm helper.

"State your name to the court," said an attorney.

"Walter Wood," he answered meekly.

"Where do you live, Mr. Wood?" "Posey township, Fayette county."

"Well, what do you know about road building, if anything?" said the barrister, rather abruptly.

Then came the surprise. What did he know about road building? A better question would have been—and the question no doubt rose in their minds at the conclusion of the examination—"what is it that you don't know about road building?"

Mr. Wood began slowly, and modestly, to tell a few facts about road making. He said he was a native of England and removed to this country when he was twenty-one years of age. At his home near Yorkshire, his father was inspector of the highway, being elected every year for thirty-five years. The witness said that he served four years as first assistant to his father and in this way gained a practical knowledge of building highways in a country where they have the matter reduced to a science. Within three miles of their home lived Mr. Macadam, the Englishman who originated what is known all over the world now as macadamized roads.

Woods said that he knew Macadam when he first began to build small stretches of roadway as an experimenter. After Wood left England he traveled all over Europe looking into the highway building in every country.

For about forty minutes the witness sat in the chair giving out facts and figures relative to scientific road building that completely put the testimony of the college men and experts in the shade. His auditors sat through it in open-mouthed wonderment. Attorneys declared afterwards that they never heard a better witness, in any case, on the stand.

Wood not only had a thorough knowledge of the question at issue, but had the faculty of giving a clear and comprehensive explanation of it. He employed good language, giving evidence of university training. Later, on being questioned, he said he received his education at the famed Askworth college in England where he took a Cambridge degree. In addition, he took four years' course in civil engineering at Kendall, a technical institute in the north of England.

It was not only a surprise to most of those assembled, but might be refreshing and a rare treat to hear a man talk so interestingly on a question in which they were vitally interested.

COUNTY LINE ROAD CASE COMPLETED

Commissioners Took the Matter Under Advisement—Will Render a Decision Next Thursday.

ARGUMENT LASTED AN HOUR

After an argument of one hour at the close of the examination of witnesses in the Elwell county line road case today the court adjourned until next Thursday afternoon when a decision will be made. The case attracted an unusually large amount of interest as many people are concerned in the project. The county commissioners of Rush and Fayette counties will convene here to announce the decision.

LAST CHAPTER OF DARK ORGIE

Three Participants in "Black Hand" Affair Fined in the Mayor's Court.

CRAIG WILL "LAY" HIS OUT

Visitors at the Burt Home Thought a Natural Gas Explosion Had Occurred.

The now much discussed Black Hand affair of Thursday night is almost a closed matter. The sensational developments did not materialize as expected. All the participants were taken before Mayor Cowing after the "court of inquiry" held early in the day and each was fined.

Jesse Craig, the young white man, arrested after being severely beaten by a brother of one of the colored girls, was fined $10 and costs for fornication and not being able to pay same was committed to jail to serve the sentence, which amounts to about twenty days.

Minnie Brown was fined $5 and costs which she paid. Florence Solberry was fined a like sum for fornication. She did not have the where-withal, but said she could "dig it up" if they would let her journey over to Carthage. The request was granted and she promised to come back Monday morning "with the change." Frank Brown, now dubbed "Fighting Brown from Jungletown," was released without being fined. The officials thought he was justified in "laying the monkey" to the white boys when he caught them dead to rights, in a compromising situation with his sister.

A hair-raising coincident occurred in connection with the affair which is worthy of being chronicled. George Thomas and wife of Chicago are visitors at the Burt home, Mrs. Thomas, being a sister of Mrs. Burt. A few minutes before the riot occurred in the Burt kitchen, the Thomases were up and about their room searching for what they thought to be a gas leak. On retiring they detected the odor of escaping gas and quickly made an investigation. It was while they were thus engaged that the first noise was heard. And it was a terrific racket. One can imagine just about how they felt under the circumstances. Mr. Thomas says he did not expect anything else but to be blown to atoms in another instant as he felt sure it was a gas explosion.

GIRLS' SCHOOL WILL BE OPENED

Eastern Ladies Have Leased Farm Near Connersville to Launch New Institution.

BEAUTIFUL SURROUNDINGS

On the Famous Old Elmhurst Place—Expect Many Pupils From a Distance.

Connersville is determined on having some pretty girls to take up their abode there that they might stop the general exodus of Connersville swains who travel to other cities in quest of parlor amusements. A few days ago an account was given of the establishment of a "beauty factory." Now comes a better idea. A classical school for girls will be launched near Connersville by Eastern women who have leased the beautiful Elmhurst farm, on the south edge of that city.

The Connersville Examiner says in part of the new school: "A very important announcement was made today of the fact that a school for young girls, an institution which it is contemplated will equal the best of the kind in the country, is to be established in Connersville. The school will not be confined to local limitations, but will offer inducements which will attract students from not only over the State of Indiana, but from throughout the entire middle west.

"The institution will be known as The Elmhurst School for Girls and will occupy the premises on Elmhurst farm, on the southern limits of the city, the property of Mr. George B. Markle and on which the promoters of the school have taken a lease.

"Schools for young girls principally are located in the East. There is a disadvantage in this fact because of the distance. This is one of the reasons why the Connersville institution is expected to appeal to the people of this section of the country. "The Elmhurst School for Girls will offer a preparatory and full academic course. It will be a boarding school and the Elmhurst buildings offer every advantage for such an institution.

"For boarding students the tuition will be $1000 per school year and for the day pupils $250 per year.

"The principals of this institution are Miss Caroline Sumner and Miss Isabel Cressler. Miss Sumner is from Smith college, Massachusetts, and Miss Cressler is from Wilson college, Pennsylvania, both institutions of note, and carrying the greatest reputations for schools of the kind in the country.

"For the past four years Miss Cressler has been principal of a school for American girls in Rome, Italy.

FAST GOING AT RIVERSIDE PARK

* Harrie Jones Sends Gordon Prince Jr. Around the Corn Field at 2:03 Gait.

SOME WONDERS IN HIS STRING

Many Keeping Cases on Billy Bryan and Frankfort Boy, Expecting Big Things.

Some fast, work-out miles were stepped off at Riverside park this morning in the Harrie Jones stable. Gordon Prince Jr. turned some easy miles in 12¼, 11¼ and 8¼, and one fast mile in six flat, the last half in 1½, or at a 2:03 gait. Big things are expected of Gordon and it is thought he will break the legs of a number of 2:08 pacers who try to keep the clip with him. He is bred in the purple and one of the best going things one ever saw perform. Many are of the opinion that it is good betting 2:01 will not stop him this season.

Another strong boy is Billy Bryan. He breezed a few soft miles today in from 8 to 12 without a word being whispered in his ear. Laura Jones trotted some easy miles around 15. Axeline went a mile in 12. Another one the rail birds are keeping their glims peeled for to do sensations is Frankfort Boy. He was sent three miles today in 12, 11 and 8, without a scolding. Leone paced her four miles around 12, one of them in 11 flat. Many of the wise boys are predicting that Jones will come home with the money in more races this year than any season since he has been in the business. He has some wonders in his string capable of doing almost anything.

HAPPY TIDINGS FOR MELON FIENDS

Crop is Said to be a Big Success Everywhere—Commission Men Well Supplied.

SOUTHERN PRODUCT IN SOON

Happy tidings come for all Rushville people. The watermelon crop is a grand success this year everywhere. Commission brokers in every city have a large supply this year. And the best part of it all is that they are good ones. From every section of the country comes the report of a good melon crop.

The southern melons have been coming for several weeks, but the best of them will come in a week or two.

This will mean plenty of melons at a reasonable price in a short time. Therefore with a good supply of ice, the hot summer days need not be such a dread, to even the fat man.

COUNTY LOOSES IN THE EXCHANGE

Rush County is Short on Number of School Children This Year.

SCHOOL MONEY IS NOW READY

State Superintendent Has Figured Out the Amounts—Will be Distributed Soon.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Robert J. Alely has made the annual apportionment of school funds to each county in the State. Before the apportionment is made the superintendent takes stock of the amount of money paid in by each county and then counts the number of school children in the State. The number of children is divided into the total amount of school money on hand and in this manner the per capita is determined. This year the per capita is $2.08, while last year it was $2.12.

There are 4911 children of school age in Rush county and this multiplied by the amount per capita, gives a total of $10,214.88 which comes to the schools of Rush county.

Rush county does not get as much back in this apportionment as she paid in. The amount paid in was $17,959.60 and if the county had more children of school age there would be a larger sum sent here. However, the shortage in enumeration means a corresponding shortage in the amount of money received for school purposes. It was urged on the people of the city and county when the enumeration was made that the more children reported the more money there would be to carry on the schools. A shortage of school children means a shortage of money and shorter schools. Some people were afraid to give in their children to the enumerators as being of school age for fear they would have to pay tax on them.

The apportionment made by Superintendent Alely is now ready for distribution and will be sent to the various counties in the State. The amount due Rush county will have to be re-apportioned by the county auditor so that it may be distributed to the township trustees, the school boards in the towns in this county and the school board of the city. The clerical force at the county auditor's office is now at work on the distribution and will have the figures completed in a short time. The money will be ready for distribution at the office of County Auditor Stone on the third Monday in this month, which is July 19.

NEED ANIMAL TRAINERS.

Knightstown Banner: A Rushville exchange says they have three blind tigers operating in that town. They still have four licensed saloons in Rushville, whose time for legal selling will expire on Saturday evening, September 11th. What will become of the blind tigers, boot leggers, etc., after that date remains to be seen.

In Just Five Months WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER

Grew a Full Growth of Hair On a Bald Head

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

MIXED CONDITIONS

Various Factors Enter Into the Trade Situation This Week.

New York, July 10.—"Future trade continues good," says Bradstreet's weekly review of trade. "Confidence is unimpaired, buyers are arriving in the larger markets; cereal crop reports despite rains in winter wheat and corn growing sections are encouraging. Country trade promises to be active, calls for harvest hands are large part of the floating supply of labor, and the long-drawn-out discussion regarding tariff matters promises to be soon ended. On the other hand the general situation is not without its drawbacks. Cool or rainy weather has retarded retail trade over a goodly part of the country, particularly in the central west, south and southwest, where floods have also deterred railway traffic and injured crops and country trade. At the same time, clearance sales are pretty general and these tend to stimulate business where normal weather conditions prevail."

CLERMONT, HUDSON'S STEAMER, LAUNCHED

Will Have Conspicuous Place
In Coming Celebration.

New York, July 10.—In the presence of a group of distinguished citizens, and with appropriate ceremonies and speeches, the replica of Robert Fulton's steamboat, the Clermont, was launched today at Mariners island, Staten Island.

The Clermont's sponsor was Mrs. Sutcliffe, granddaughter of Robert Fulton. An address on the historical features of the occasion was delivered by Edward Hagaman Hall, the author and historian, who is assistant secretary of the Hudson-Fulton commission.

The duplicate of the first practicable steamship has been constructed for the purpose of playing a conspicuous part in the coming great celebration at the end of September and the beginning of October of the tercentenary of the discovery of the Hudson river by Henry Hudson and of the centennial of Fulton's epoch-making feat of steaming from New York to Albany and back. The Clermont and the replica of the Half Moon, Hudson's vessel, which has been built in Holland, will be central features of the two weeks' celebration. Together they will proceed up the Hudson to receive the acclamation of the throngs that will crowd the banks of the river.

With the Clermont and the Half Moon will be reproductions of other historic vessels, such as the first sailing ferryboat navigated by the early Vanderbilt between Manhattan and Staten Island. The historic vessels will form the nucleus of a splendid naval parade composed in part of warships of this and other nations. The whole will be the most imposing and interesting naval spectacle ever seen in America.

The Swiss government spends more money in proportion to its population for the relief of its poor, than any other country.

Washington, July 10.—An outline of the tentative plans for his trip through the west and south this fall has been given by President Taft. As soon as the tariff bill has received the action of the president, Mr. Taft will leave Washington for Beverly. He will remain there until Sept. 15—his 52nd birthday—when he hopes, if Mrs. Taft continues to improve, to begin his western journey. The president will head direct from Beverly to Seattle. After visiting the exposition there the president will swing down to the southwest, stopping for a time at Portland, and proceeding thence to San Francisco. Leaving San Francisco, the president will go direct to Los Angeles, where he will stop for several days with his sister.

From Los Angeles he will go to San Diego and then go into Arizona and New Mexico. The president will then stop for a time at El Paso, where he expects to meet President Diaz of Mexico. Mr. Diaz and President Taft have never met. The Mexican president wrote recently to the White House suggesting a conference at El Paso, and President Taft replied that he would be delighted to meet the Mexican executive about Oct. 15.

After his stop at El Paso the president will visit San Antonio, where he will inspect Fort Sam Houston. After visiting Austin and Dallas, Tex., the president expects to spend several days on the ranch owned by his brother, Charles P. Taft, at Corpus Christi, near Brownsville.

Continuing east, the president will stop at Houston and go to New Orleans to attend the meeting of the deep waterways congress, the date of which will be fixed to suit his convenience.

After attending the convention, Mr. Taft wants to stop for a time in the Bayou Teche country of Louisiana. From there the president will proceed to Jackson, Miss., thence to Montgomery, Birmingham and Macon. From Macon the president will go "home" to Augusta to have a game or two of golf on the links where he spent so much time last winter. Leaving Augusta, the president goes to Savannah, and from there begins his northward flight to the White House, stopping at Wilmington, N. C., and Richmond, Va.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

Obituary.

Lavon Hilligoss-Osborn, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Hilligoss was born on the present home farm, southwest of Rushville, Dec. 11, 1885.

She united with the Main Street Christian church under the ministry of Rev. W. J. Russell.

She was united in marriage to Bert Osborn, Nov. 30, 1904. One son—Lowell—came to bless their hearts and lives to cheer and bless them.

Lavon's talent as a musician was well developed and she with her sister furnished choice entertainment both in the home and in the social circle. They were members of the Ladies' Musical of this city and were heard many times in their programs.

She is of a sweet, loving, helpful disposition and her readiness of hand and her willingness of heart to assist all, made her one of the bright lights of the home.

She suffered about four weeks during her last illness and not a word of complaint passed her lips. Just a while before the death angel called she murmured "I have passed through the gates" then arousing herself as by an effort she called her loved ones to her bedside and as long as her strength permitted calmly talked with them, bade them farewell and passed "through the gates" indeed.

Thus closed a sweet, Christian life as she fell asleep in the early morning of June 9th, 1909 leaving her husband, little Lowell, her father, mother, one sister and one brother with sad and lonely hearts, but they sorrow not as those who have no hope and patiently wait until they too shall "pass within the gates" and dwell forever with the loved and lost who have gone on before.

How to Cure Skin Diseases.

The germs and their poisons which cause the disease must be drawn to the surface of the skin and destroyed.

Zemo, a scientific preparation for external use will do this and will positively cure Eczema, Pimples, Dandruff and every form of skin or scalp disease. See photos of many remarkable cures and show case or window display at F. E. Wolcott's drug store. Ask for sample.

RUMOR REVIVED.

Connorsville News: The rumor of the deal for the consolidation of the Courier and Examiner was revived Tuesday, owing to the return of Senator Moore from Kentucky. The latter states that if the deal is consummated he will probably not be connected with the new publication.

A Guaranteed Cough remedy is Bees Laxative Cough Syrup. For coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, hoarseness and all bronchial affections. Best for children because it is quick to relieve and tastes good. Gently laxative. Sold by Lytle's Drug Store.

Smart Tips For Men

A new hat is the rainproof gaberdine, rainproof and extremely light. Ramboos straws and bangkoks are taking well in stray hats.

Plain sets of links and pin are the best favored in the jewelry line. Panel sets are being featured by some shops.

Narrow open-end graduated scarfs and straight one-inch wide ties, especially reversible, are in demand.

Dark grounds in tans and blues are popular in shirts and plain solid stripes are also favored.

Soft collars for outings are being revived. Madras stripes are also popular in collars.

Sack coats are ordered in the same length prevailing this season, thirty-one to thirty-two inches with variations in the dip of the front according to the style of the model.

A waistcoat is being shown with solid gray stripes alternating with mixed gray and white mottled stripes. Gray braid trims the edges.

The new collar, introduced some time ago, having a band on the sides to allow the cravat to slide through easily is popular.

Stripes in different widths, but for the most part medium and in different shades are being shown in the suitings.

The soft fabrics, silk and mixtures, are more in evidence this summer than ever before.

Green hose will be in vogue this fall more than ever before according to retailers.

Among the novelties in belts is the initial fob attachment, with a chain for the watch. New shades of tan and gray are being shown.

An excellent substitute for the soft bosom shirt is the use of an which provides a degree of starchiness not so heavy as the bosom front, but prevents crumpling.

Summer scarfs in which a broad stripe runs down the center and is bordered on both sides by contrasting shades are popular. The scarf pin worn with this tie is a stone matching the hide shade.

A novelty being displayed is a pearl soft hat with a narrow white binding and a bronze green band.

Madras shirts in whites and neat striped fancies with a collar to match are attracting attention.

Striped effects in moderate blues and grays are the most popular straw hat bands.

The narrow stripes form the prevailing pattern for cravats. The favored treatment has the stripe in striking contrast with the ground.

A new collar is being worn in which the front is almost completely closed and the lower edges of the tabs curved upward.

Splendid displays of silk half-hose are being made by the shops. Verticals continue to divide favor with cross stripes.

Popular among the younger element are the belts in which the buckles are fitted with detachable initials.

Stiff-bosom shirts will be worn more than ever this fall according to the retailers. In summer shirts, the narrower sort are most in evidence.

Two-tone effects rule in garments for informal wear. Self-stripes take precedence over figures for formal usage.

In some of the new collars black and gray threads are used for the stitching near the edge instead of white.

For Woman's Eye.

The odd way in which a tiny cascade of lace is let into the bodice of a gown is fascinating. It may be run along one side of the yoke or down the center, let into slashes in the sleeves—wherever found it adds a bit of softness that is invariably pleasing.

One thinks of turbans and small hats as especially adapted to middle-aged and elderly women, but they are indisputably becoming to many young women, as is being demonstrated at the present time.

Don't make the mistake of selecting a panama hat with too small a crown. It is too great a contrast with one's other hats in this season of large crowns—looks like a back number.

Turquoise beads and silver threads are used to embroider the blue tunic of a ball gown that is draped over blue liberty of the same shade.

Invariably soft and feminine is the effect of the sleeve of the evening gown when it opens over a slightly longer sleeve of lace.

The smartest stockings are embroidered in self-tones.

Jet neck chains give a chic touch to the black gowns.

Many of the fashionable long jackets have pockets.

Mr. Wolcott is pleased to announce to his customers that he has secured the agency for Zemo, the best known remedy for the positive and permanent cure of Eczema, Pimples, Dandruff, Blackheads, Piles and every form of skin or scalp disease. Zemo gives instant relief and cures by destroying the germ that causes the disease, leaving a clean, healthy skin. See display and photos of cures made by Zemo at F. E. Wolcott's drug store. FOR MAYOR.

We are authorized to announce the name of W. O. Headlee as a candidate for mayor of the city of Rushville, subject to the decision of the Republican city nominating convention.

The Republican party is without an organ at the State capital, says the Peru Journal. Both the Star and News are independent in general and Marshall organs in particular.

Senator Beveridge has been a consistent Republican all through the tariff debate and all his efforts for a downward revision of the tariff have been in harmony with the pledge of the Republican party.

The government plant bureau at Washington is constantly looking for new food plants which might be raised in this country. The bureau has been experimenting with cabbages from China weighing from forty to sixty pounds and giant radishes from Japan. It declares them most nourishing and regards their importation as important.

The Commercial-Mail of Columbia City, the home town of Governor Marshall, says:

"While the process of eliminating W. H. Whittaker from the Jeffersonville reformatory was in progress this week, Governor Marshall spent the time at the Kimsey home near Anderson. However, a Democrat by some hook or crook, was appointed to take Mr. Whittaker's place when he resigned. Not a single Republican will be given a position in Indiana where it is possible to appoint a Democrat, under the Marshall administration. This paper has maintained this all along and transpiring

MINATURE BANKS ISSUED

May be Taken to the Home to Encourage Saving.

A new feature in the banking business is the home savings bank as issued by the Peoples Loan and Trust company, when a small sum is deposited on the opening of a new account in the savings department. It is a small steel safe, in which the small change of every day may be placed therein and taken to the trust company every two weeks and the amount deposited to the credit of the owner of the bank. The trust company keeps the key and the bank can only be opened at the trust company, and the amount counted and credited to the owner of the bank. This will, no doubt, aid in the saving of many who wish to save something each week.

Rejoice Hubbies; Not a Button!

Entirely innocent of buttons, the "aeroplane gown" is the very latest of the late creations for women.

It looks at first glance like a walking skirt, but there's a secret. It is two walking skirts, or something. This is revealed the moment the wearer takes a step, and it just keeps right on being revealed every time she moves, either to walk, stoop or sit down. It is intended for a street costume, for bowling, golfing, hunting and all manner of sports as well as for comfort in the home.

The gowns open only in the back, on the left side, and fastens closely with hooks. There is not a button on it. The "trousers" are of sufficient length to reach the ankles, but are caught up below the knee and held there by rubber bands.

Only tighties are to be worn under the gown, there being no place reserved for underskirts. The width of the pantaloons is fifty-six inches. The aeroplane gown is expected to be the thing at the seashore this summer.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

FIRST HOME GROWN.

(Columbus Republican.)

Peter Stidman of the western part of the county, brought in the first new peaches of the season this year and sold them to H. J. Tooley for two dollars per bushel. The peach crop of the county is said to be fairly good considering the unfavorable condition of the weather during the early spring.

A GOLDEN HEN.

(Richmond Palladium.)

Mrs. Catherine Haworth, 700 North Thirteenth street, has a hen which does not lay golden eggs, but as a money making proposition this chicken is about the best. The hen began laying January 9 and continued until June 25. She produced 139 eggs. It is unusual for a hen to lay so long and with such remarkable regularity.

ARREST LIGHTENING.

(Shelbyville News.)

After weeks of ceaseless labor, Sturley Carruthers, custodian of the city building, has devised a lightening arrester that gives promise of filling a "long felt want." The contrivance is the very embodiment of simplicity and has stood all tests thus far made. Today Mr. Carruthers will apply a heavy voltage to the arrester and if it serves the purpose he hopes, steps will, perhaps, be taken to patent the article.

Mr. Carruthers is an adept with tools and is a natural-born genius. Many appliances in use at the city building are of his handiwork.

WILL RAISE RABBITS HERE.

(Connersville Courier.)

There is great rivalry between Greensburg and Rushville as to which can show the most curious instance in freak vegetation. In Greensburg trees grow on the court house tower, and in Rushville a vine or weed of some kind has taken root in the dirt-clogged downspout of a hotel. Pshaw! When those towns have been dead a few years longer trees and grass will grow all over them.

WAS SEEN HERE.

(Columbus Republican.)

Several people report having seen a meteor shortly before ten o'clock on Thursday night. The meteor was first sighted in the southeast and it seemed to be traveling northwest. The heavenly body passed over this city at the rate of about a million miles an hour, more or less, and local people only had a glimpse of it. While the meteor was passing it made a brilliant light, which caused some people to think that residents of their neighborhood were discharging fireworks. Columbus people from all parts of town report having seen the meteor.

PLAYTHING OF CHILDREN.

(Connersville Courier.)

Wireless telegraphy is getting to be the ruling fad in Rushville, according to the Republican. "Already two different stations have been completed and two others are being erected," that paper remarks, and then tells of successful experiments in sending messages. The expert messengers are boys. Think of it! One of the greatest inventions of the age, involving the discovery and control of a power unsuspected through eons of time, now the plaything of children! The Courier is of the opinion that those seeking gasping wonders of the most advanced civilization might make a mistake to go to Mars. The earth may be younger, but the Marthians will have to go some if they expect to keep in the lead.

WHY THEY BUTT IN.

(Greensburg News.)

The carcass of a once game old goat being smoked to a beautiful finish, was responsible for a run by the fire department Friday morning. Charles McCune came along South Broadway and when opposite the residence of Jacob Ashcraft noticed smoke pouring from the windows of a summer kitchen. He heard someone exclaim, "Throw water over there." Naturally he thought the building afire and turned in an alarm. When the department arrived they discovered the Ashcrafts all gathered around the dismembered carcass of a billy goat. The animal had been killed and was being smoked with a view of it furnishing many a toothsome (?) meal this winter when other meats will probably be out of sight.

BIG AEROPLANE SHOW

Eyes of the World's Aviators Turn to Germany Today.

Frankfort, Germany, July 10.—The international balloon and aeroplane exposition opened in this city today and will remain open until October. Among the exhibits shown are flying machines as well known as those of the Wright brothers, Count von Zeppelin, Major von Parseval, Count de la Vaulx and others whose recent exploits in navigating the air have held the attention of the entire civilized world.

During the exposition dirigible airships of rigid and nonrigid patterns, aeroplanes and spherical balloons will be seen in flight, and facilities will be offered visitors to make trips in airships, starting from the exhibition grounds. For sixty days during the exhibition there will be races and other competitions of a sporting and military character.

Experiments with aeroplanes will be carried out on a specially prepared velodrome in the grounds. The Zeppelin and Parseval airships will take passengers on excursions along the Rhine. During the races communication will be kept up by means of the exhibition's own wireless telegraph system and carrier pigeons. Numerous prizes have been offered.

The honorary committee of the exhibition includes such prominent aeronauts as Count F. Bishop, president of the Aero Club of America; Count von Zeppelin, Major Gross, Major von Parseval, Professor Busley, Professor Hergesell, Colonel Schaeck, last year's winner of the international balloon race; Count de la Vaulx, Prince Borghese, Major General Kowanko, chief of the imperial Russian balloon squad, and Captain Amundsen of Stockholm.

Local Institution Distributing "Make-Believe" Books.

The Rush County National bank has on exhibition in their window a number of small savings banks which they are distributing among those who wish to carry a savings account at their institution. The banks are made to represent a book and are ornamental. For this reason they can be left around the home with a reasonable surety as they would not attract the eye of a thief.

MILROY YOUTHS HAVE LEFT HOME

Two Young Men Run Off to Try For Fame and Fortune Elsewhere.

SAVED UP SMALL GRUB STAKE

William George, eighteen, and Elbert Poole, sixteen, two youths living at Milroy, have left home for parts unknown. Not even to their closest friends did they convey where they intended locating, but quietly left the peaceful village last Thursday night. They drove to this city and took a car bound for Indianapolis about ten o'clock.

The boys are going out into the world to try for their fortunes in strange lands. They have been working for Hugh Archey, west of Milroy, and had saved between sixty and seventy dollars for a grub stake, before they left. They said if their parents tried to locate them they would never hear from them again or come back, but if they did not, the boys said they would write as soon as they located.

England and Wales have 750,000 paupers.

AMUSEMENTS

A complete change of program at the Palace tonight.

A trip to the zoological garden of London, England, should truly prove interesting, since a trip to the Cincinnati Zoo was always a rare treat. The Star-Grand theater offers you this rare treat tonight showing moveable pictures of this famous English garden, stocked with rare specimens of animals, birds, etc. "Bottled Up" is the second film, which will afford plenty of amusement.

At the Vaudet theater tonight will be shown the films, "Fountain of Youth" and "Beggars Coin." One is dramatic and the other comical. A new illustrated song will be sung.

Dramatic Mirror: G. Carlton Guy, known professionally as Guy Mercer, is not, as has been reported, in a sanitarium, but is at the head of his own stock company in the middle west. In the Dramatic Mirror there appeared a paragraph to the effect that Mr. Mercer had been sent to a sanitarium as a result of mental trouble following a long season in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." This was also published by daily newspapers throughout the country, apparently having been sent out by some press association. But the story was not true, and the Mirror is not only anxious to explain the true state of the case, but to express the wish that Mr. Mercer may be able to ascertain who spread abroad a malicious and cruel story.

It is safe to say that there is not a person living in Rush county who ever visited the Arctic regions—the Land of the Midnight sun. And yet a trip to the frozen North can be undertaken these delightful July evenings by simply visiting the Star-Grand theater Monday night. "The Land of the Midnight Sun" will be the subject of the film Monday night and will give vivid glimpses of that part of the world. The ship can be seen plowing through the ice and meeting three huge icebergs. The ship goes around one of them as close as it is safe for it to go. In that part of the world the sun is above the horizon all day and all night, except at midnight he sinks below the horizon for a short time, throwing a streak of light across the waters. This part of a rare sight is shown and should not be missed by anyone. The ship approaches within a short distance the bleak, mountainous and terrible looking coast of Spitzberger, an island far to the north of Norway. This interesting film was produced by Pathe Brothers, the famous French film makers, who have representatives traveling all over the world.

HORSE NOTES

City Marshall Price has a fine colt sired by Allation from his Patchen Boy mare. The young animal was born yesterday.

Some Hot Weather Don'ts

Don't mow your lawn with a mower at four in the morning if you have neighbors living near. This has been known to cause the neighbors to become overheated.

Don't think you can be made cooler by a large consumption of alcoholic spirits, for their cooling effects on the way down is more than counter-balanced by their warming effect afterwards.

Don't run or walk long distances in the heat of the day. Use an automobile.

Don't ask a man if it is warm enough for him. He is likely to make it too warm for you.

Don't laugh too heartily at anything, for excessive laughter in hot weather has been known to induce apoplexy.

Don't argue. Nobody who disagrees with you will be convinced by an argument, anyway.

Don't whip the children merely because you are warm and want to take it out on someone.

Don't slap viciously at mosquitoes. Remember mosquitoes have feelings.

Don't worry about your debts. Let the other fellow do the worrying.

Don't eat too much.

Don't worry about whether the "boss" will give you a vacation. He won't.

Don't be disappointed about anything. Things will likely get worse.

Don't pay any attention to the above advice unless you agree with it.

CHAPTER V. THE ENGLISH INVADE.

THE granddaughter of Jack Wyckholme, attended by two maids, her husband and his valet, a clerk from the chambers of Bosworth, Newnes & Grape-win, a red cocker, seventeen trunks and a cartload of late novels, which she had been too busy to read at home, was the first of the bewildered legatees to set foot upon the island of Japat.

She was very pretty, very smart and delightfully arrogant after a manner of her own.

Mr. Saunders was the polite but excessively middle class clerk who went out to keep the legal strings untangled for them. He was soon to discover that his duties were even more comprehensive.

It was he who saw to it that the luggage was transferred to the lighter which came out to the steamer when she dropped anchor off the town of Aratat; it was he who counted the pieces and haggled with the boatmen;
it was he who carried off the hand luggage when the native dock boys refused to engage in the work; it was he who unfortunately dropped a suit case upon the hallowed tail of the red cocker, an accident which ever afterward gave him a tenacity of grip that no man could understand.

If Lady Deppingham expected a royal welcome from the inhabitants of Japat she was soon to discover her error. Not only was the pictured scene of welcome missing on the afternoon of her arrival, but an overpowering air of antipathy smote her in the face as she stepped from the lighter, conquest in her smile of conciliation.
She glanced from right to left down the lines of swarthy islanders and saw nothing in their faces but surly, bitter unfriendliness. They stood stolidly, stomach at a distance, white robes lines of resentment personified.

Not a hand was lifted in assistance to the bewildered visitors; not a word, not a smile of encouragement escaped the lips of the silent throng.

"Is there no British agent here?" she demanded imperatively, perhaps a little more shrilly than usual.

No one deigned to answer. Glances of indifference, even scorn, passed among the silent lookers-on, but that was all.

"Does no one here understand the English language?" she demanded. "I don't mean you, Mr. Saunders," she added sharply as the little clerk set the suit case down abruptly and stepped forward, again fumbling his much fumbled straw hat. This was the moment when the red cocker's tail came to grief. The dog arose with an astonished yelp and fled to his mistress. He had never been so outragedly set upon before in all his pampered life. Seizing the opportunity to vent her feelings upon one who could understand, even as she poured soothings upon the insulted Pong, whom she clasped in her arms, Lady Agnes transformed the unlucky Saunders into a target for a most ably directed volley of wrath.

Lord Deppingham, a slow and cumbersome young man, stood by nervously fingering his eyeglass. For the first time he felt that the clerk was better than a confounded dog after all.
"My dear," he said, waving Saunders into the background, "I think it was an accident. The dog had no business going to sleep." He paused and inserted his monocle for the purpose of looking up the precise spot where the accident had occurred.

"Oh, rubbish!" exclaimed her lady-ship. "I suppose you expect the poor darling to apologize."

"All this has nothing to do with the case. We're more interested in learning where we are and where we are to go. Permit me to have a look about."

His wife stared after him in amazement as he walked over to the canvas awning in front of the low dock building, actually elbowing his way through a group of natives. Presently he came back, twisting his left mustache.

"The fellow in there says that the English agent is employed in the bank.
It's straight up this street. By Jove!
He called it a street, don't you know," he exclaimed, disdainfully eying the narrow, dusty passage ahead.

"There's the British flag, my lord, just ahead. See the building to the right, sir?" said Mr. Saunders, more respectfully than ever and with real gratitude in his heart.

"So it is! That's where he is. I wonder why he isn't down here to meet us?"

"Very likely he didn't know we were coming," said his wife icily.

"Well, we'll look him up. Come along, everybody. Oh, I say, we can't leave this luggage unguarded. They say these fellows are the worst robbers

east of London."

It was finally decided, after a rather subdued discussion, that Mr. Saunders should proceed to the bank and rout out the dilatory representative of the British government. Saunders looked down the sullen line of faces and blanched to his toes.

"Tell him we'll wait for him," pursued his lordship. "But remind him—him, that it's inexpressibly hot down here in the sun."

They stood and watched the miserable Saunders tread gingerly up the filthy street, his knees crooking outwardly from time to time, very much as if he were contemplating an instan-taneous sprint in any direction but the one he was taking. Even the placid Deppingham was somewhat disturbed by the significant glances that followed their emissary as he passed by each separate knot of natives.

"I do hope Mr. Saunders will come back alive," murmured Bromley, her ladyship's maid. The others started, for she had voiced the general thought.

"He won't come back at all, Bromley, unless he comes back alive," said his lordship, with a smile. It was a well known fact that he never smiled except when his mind was troubled.

"Goodness, Deppy," said his wife, recognizing the symptom, "do you really think there is danger?"

"My dear Aggy, who said there was any danger?" he exclaimed and quickly looked out to sea. "I rather think we'll enjoy it here," he added after a moment's pause, in which he saw that the steamer was getting under way.
The Japat company's tug was returning to the pier. Lord Deppingham sighed and then drew forth his cigarette case. "There," he went on, peering intently up the street. "Saunders is gone."

"Gone?" half shrieked her ladyship.

"Into the bank," he added, scratching a match.

"Deppy," she said after a moment,
"I hope I was not too hard on the poor fellow."

"Perhaps you won't be so nervous if you sit down and look at the sea," he said gently, and she immediately knew that he suggested it because he expected a tragedy in the opposite direction.

They expected every minute to hear the shouts of assassins and the screams of the brave Mr. Saunders.
Their apprehensions were sensibly increased by the mysterious actions of the half naked loiterers. They made off in various directions, more than one of them handling his ugly crease in an ominous manner. Bromley was not slow to acquaint his lordship with these movements. Deppingham felt a cold chill shoot up his spine, but he refused to encourage the maid's fears by turning around.

"Your lordship," said Mr. Saunders three minutes later, "this is Mr.
Bowles, his majesty's agent here. He is come with me to—"

It was then and not until then that his lordship turned his stare from the sea to the clerk and his companion.

"Aw," he interrupted, "glad to see you, I'm sure. Would you be good enough to tell us how we are to reach the—chateau and why the devil we can't get anybody to move our luggage?"

Mr. Bowles, who had lived in Japat for sixteen years, was a tortuously slow Englishman, with the curse of the climate still growing upon him. He was half asleep quite a good bit of the

"Everything is transferred by hand, my lord, and the chateau is two miles farther up the side of the mountain.
It's quite a walk, sir."

"Do you mean to say we are to walk?"

"Yes, my lord, if you expect to go there."

"Of course we expect to go there.
Are there no horses on the beastly island?"

"Hundreds, my lord, but they belong to the people, and no one but their owners ride them. The servants at the chateau turned Mr. Skaggs' horses out to pasture before they left."

"Before who left?"

"The servants, my lord."

Lady Deppingham's eyes grew wide with understanding. "You don't mean to say that the servants have left the place?" she cried.

"Yes, my lady. They were natives, you know."

"What's that got to do with it?" demanded Deppingham.

"I'm afraid you don't understand the situation," said Mr. Bowles patiently. "You see, it's really a triangular controversy, if I may be so bold as to say so. Lady Deppingham is one of the angles; Mr. Browne, the American gentleman, is another; the native population is the last. Each wants to be the hypotenuse. While the interests of all three are merged in the real issue, there is nevertheless a decided disposition all around to make it an entirely one sided affair."

"I don't believe I grasp"—muttered Deppingham blankly.

"I see perfectly," exclaimed his wife.
"The natives are allied against us, just as we are, in a way, against them and Mr. Browne. Really, it seems quite natural, doesn't it, dear?" turning to her husband.

"Very likely, but very unfortunate.
It leaves us to broil our brains out down here on this pier. I say, Mr.— er—old chap, can't you possibly engage some sort of transportation for us? Really, you know, we can't stand here all day."

"I've no doubt I can arrange it, my lord. If you will just wait here until I run back to the bank I dare say I'll find a way. Perhaps you'd prefer standing under the awning until I return."

It was fully half an hour before he was seen coming down the street, followed by a score or more of natives, their dirty white robes flapping above their brown legs. At first they could not believe it was Bowles. Lord Deppingham had a sharp thrill of joy, but it was short lived. Bowles had changed at least a portion of his garb. He now wore the tight red jacket of the British trooper, while an ancient army cap was strapped jauntily over his ear.

"It's all right, my lord," he said, saluting as he came up. "They will do turning majestically to the hudd-

Whereupon the entire collection of boxes, bags and bundles figuratively picked itself up and walked off in the direction of the chateau.

CONFEREES GET THE TARIFF BILL

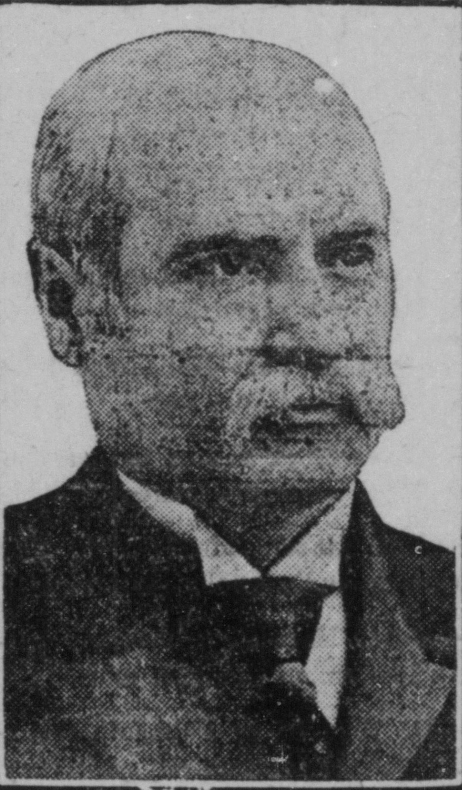

House Grants Conference Requested by Senate.

INTEREST WAS AT FEVER HEAT

Leaders on Both Sides of the House Had Marshalled Their Respective Forces to Receive the Tariff Bill, and the Debate at Times Waxed Warm—Finally the Conferees Were Sent to the Senate Unhampered by Instructions, at Chairman Payne's Request.

Washington, July 10.—After a period of heated debate, the house disagreed to all of the 847 amendments made to the tariff bill, thus shifting the tariff question to a conference committee. The request of the senate for a conference was granted by a vote of 178 to 151. Eighteen Republicans voted against the rule and one Democrat for it.

All of the conferees, including the Democratic members, met in the senate office building and were in session about an hour when the Democratic members were dismissed. Senator Aldrich frankly told the minority that the majority would prepare its report without assistance. No protest was made by the Democrats, as it had been known all along that they would not be permitted to participate in making up the conference report any more than they had been permitted to have a hand in making up the bill in committee. Names of members of joint committee: Senate—Aldrich (R.), Rhode Island; Hale (R.), Maine; Penrose (R.), Pennsylvania; Burrows (R.), Michigan; Cullom (R.), Illinois; Daniels (D.), Virginia; Money (D.), Louisiana; Bailey (D.), Texas.

When the house met interest was at fever heat. The leaders on both sides had notified their respective forces to be on hand, in anticipation that the tariff bill would come over from the senate. The summonses were responded to almost without exception. Many of the members showed by their tanned faces that they had been sojourning during the hot spell at the seashore resorts.

The debate at times waxed warm, and disclosed the fact that there were some Republicans, in addition to the so-called "insurgents," who were yet to be pacified before they would give their votes on the final passage of the bill. The Democrats held up the majority party to scorn for having, as they charged, violated its ante-election pledges. A feature of the discussion was an appeal by Chairman Payne to his colleagues to send the conferees to the senate unhampered by instructions. He promised to rigidly exact an explanation of every amendment made by the senate, in order that the house conferees might report back a bill which would meet the approval of the majority and of the country at large. His appeal was granted.

Adjournment was taken until Monday noon, when the joint resolution providing for the submission to the several states of the income tax amendment to the constitution will be considered.

Made the Bolivians Mad.

La Paz, Bolivia, July 10.—A furious mob attacked the Argentine legation, necessitating the calling out of troops. The trouble is the outcome of the decision rendered by President Alcora of Argentina, in the boundary dispute between Peru and Bolivia, which is regarded here as being entirely favorable to Peru.

Calmed Down by Troops.

TAGGART CLEARS RECORD IN COURT

Lifts His Name Out of the Gingles Case.

Chicago, July 10.—In order, as he said, that his name might be cleared of any shadow, Thomas Taggart voluntarily took the stand in the trial of Ella Gingles, the girl accused of stealing lace. In this he was so successful that even Attorney O'Donnell, for the accused girl, made a statement in court denying that Mr. Taggart was known by the defendant or that the use of his name by her indicated there was any evidence to connect him with the case.

"I want it distinctly understood," declared Mr. O'Donnell, "that Mr. Taggart's name was brought into this case over my protest. We have proof that Miss Gingles never was acquainted with Mr. Taggart and his name was mentioned only indirectly to her. It might have been any one of 10,000 names of wealthy men, but it happened to be Taggart, and in this particular Mr. Taggart is unfortunate."

"Do you know Miss Gingles?" asked Attorney Short.

"I do not," answered Mr. Taggart with emphasis.

"Did you ever hear of Miss Gingles before this case?" continued Mr. Short.

"Only some months ago, when somebody brought me a newspaper containing the name of Miss Gingles and Miss Barrette."

"You were not subpoenaed here by the state, were you?"

"I was not subpoenaed by anybody. I heard that my name was being used and as a man of family came to clear my name of any shadow which might have been thrown over it."

BURGLAR'S REGRET

Says He Will Be Glad to Let Mr. Staber Shoot Him Down.

New York, July 10.—The district attorney has secured from Frank Schmidt, the wounded burglar, who has made an admission that he killed Mrs. Sophia Staber when he was caught robbing the Staber home, his version of the moral to be drawn from the murder.

"Mr. Staber and his son are the ones to blame for this killing," he said. "They were fools to try to stop such men as us when all we wanted was to make a getaway. If we had been left alone, there would not have been no shooting."

"If Mr. Staber will take a gun, I will gladly stand up in front of him and let him shoot till I drop dead. That's how much I regret this affair."

Schmidt's pal, Carlo Giro, alias Metzler, who was silent at first, has made a full confession, in which he tried to lay all the blame on his mate.

"COUNTY COUNCIL"

BOTTLED CARBONATED DRINKS

From various sources, and for reasons not easily understood, erroneous and disparaging statements have often been made relative to soda-water, for the apparent purpose of creating a prejudice in the public mind against all beverages familiarly known as soft drinks or pop. To counteract such false and malicious statements, and do demonstrate that bottled soda water particularly, is the purest, most healthful and most refreshing of all summer beverages, it is only necessary to consider the following simple truths, which are easily proven and cannot be controverted.

- 1st.—Absolute cleanliness is the first requisite of every successful bottling shop.
 - 2nd.—Pure carbonic acid gas in beverages is healthful, refreshing, and tonic in its action upon the digestive organs.
 - 3rd.—None but the purest water can be used for bottled carbonated drinks.
 - 4th.—No flavoring or coloring which is harmful, and no deleterious drugs are now permitted to be used in either bottled or fountain soda.
- If these assertions are true, it must be manifest to every reasonable person that the sensational and disparaging statements and prejudices against soda water and pop have absolutely no foundation. Fortunately the truth of each of these four assertions is easily proven, as follows:
- 1st.—Unless the syrup jars, hose, carborator and bottling apparatus necessary in putting up bottled soda are kept perfectly clean internally, and unless the bottles are thoroughly washed and rinsed before filling, the beverages will not remain clear; an unsightly sediment or cloudiness will appear in the goods that will render them unsalable. Every practical bottler knows that a viscous fermentation, or what he technically calls "ropiness," is his worst enemy and that its cause is dirt. For that reason, if for no other, the bottler is obliged to observe the laws of cleanliness in order to produce salable goods. If bottled drinks are clear, it is positive evidence that they are made in a clean shop, and bottled in clean bottles.
 - 2nd.—There is abundant medical testimony to prove the beneficial influence and refreshing effect of carbonic acid gas upon the appetite and digestion. Ask your own doctor about it. It is the carbonic acid gas in Kumiss and in Champagne that makes them so refreshing and so easily borne by weak stomachs. The bottler does not now make the gas, but buys it, purified and liquified, from the large manufacturers, thus insuring the use of none but the purest and best gas.
 - 3rd.—Ordinary drinking water, from whatever source it may be derived, from spring, well, lake or running stream, is at certain times of the year contaminated with organic matter or living germs held in solution. Such contamination does not necessarily render the water turbid; on the contrary, it will often remain crystal clear, and in appearance and taste perfectly usable. If a little syrup or other nutritious substance be added to the water, the invisible germs feed upon it and in a day or two the water is filled with fungus growths that render it unsightly and unfit to drink. Such water cannot be used by the bottler for obvious reasons; his goods must remain clear—if they must "keep"—so he is obliged to filter all the water which he uses for his bottled drinks through a dense stone filter capable of excluding the germs, or else to distill it, so that, as a matter of fact, the water used in bottled drinks is much purer and better than any ordinary drinking water.

Some waters contain mineral salts that are precipitated by the carbonic acid gas, and for that reason are unfit for the bottler's use. His beverages require pure, soft water.

- 4th.—The use in beverages of any ingredient harmful to health, or of any deleterious drug, is prohibited under penalty by the National Pure Food Law, and by the Pure Food Laws of every State. No bottler can afford to risk prosecution by using any coloring or flavoring or other ingredient that is not perfectly harmless, or by using any dangerous drug. The fact that there have been no prosecutions on such charges is reasonably satisfactory proof that there is no ground for them.

It is true that imitation instead of genuine flavors are used for some drinks, (not all by any means) such as "Strawberry," "Raspberry," etc., but that is because the fruit juice contains albumen and will not remain in clear solution in a bottled carbonated drink. The "imitation" flavors are wholesome, and are not used as a matter of economy, but simply because it is necessary to use them, as nothing else will take their place; furthermore, such flavors are always plainly labeled "Artificial" or "Imitation," to avoid any possible deception.

Fountain soda water enjoys a wide popularity and deserves it, but it is often drawn by inexperienced clerks who put in the glass too much syrup and too little soda, or is served with ice cream as a sort of confection rather than a thirst quenching drink. Again, too much of the gas escapes when the water is drawn from the fountain, or it is not sufficiently cooled. On the other hand, a bottle of Ginger Ale, Root Beer, Sarsaparilla or Lemon Soda, taken off the ice, is always clear, cool and sparkling—not too sweet; in fact it is just the drink to quench the thirst—nothing else is as exhilarating and refreshing.

WHAT IT IS.

The Brecheisen Bottling Co.'s bottled Soda Water is just the purest of water, charged with pure carbonic acid gas, with a little syrup, flavored with harmless flavoring and coloring and pure fruit acid. Any statements to the contrary are false and based upon ignorance or malice.

Respectfully yours,

J. H. BRECHEISEN

Local Young Man Writes a Song

Elger Higgs, the leather lunged barker and spieler, who makes the big noise in front of the Palace theater nightly, is bent on breaking into the song writing business. His first effort "Pull Down Your Vest" is clever and catchy, to say the least. We have heard many popular songs not half as good as this one. In all probability, Williams, the pianist at the Palace, and who essays the role of bank cashier in the day time at the Morristown bank, will put the words to Music. Williams is a talented musician and while he never had any composition published, still he composes and improvises some catchy theme and jingles.

Look over Higg's lines:

PULL DOWN YOUR VEST.

Now when you go to see a girl,
You'd like to make your wife
You clasp her to your heart and say
You love her more than life.
And ask her hand and when you think
That she will make you blest,
She calmly looks you in the face
And says "Pull down your vest."
Oh, aint it awful?

Now make a noise like a hoop and roll away.
And back to the bushes are great Fade away like the sun on a cloudy day.
Are phases that are hard to beat.
But the one that takes the bakery,
And the one they like to yell best
Is that stinging, scorching, slangy talk.

"Just pull down your vest."

You meet some friends, real jolly dogs
Who earnestly invite You to go to their club and have a time,
And you stay quite late at night.
Then with your wife to make it right
You try your very best
And while you speak she blankly smiles
And says "Pull down your vest."
Oh, aint it awful?
